I would like to take this opportunity to express my opposition to the Harmony Grove Village South project. I don't believe that adding over 450 units on a mere 36 acres of land is keeping with the rural character of our community. Nor do I think that it is safe to add that many units without the proper infrastructure needed to evacuate the area in the even of a wild fire. Our roads our of the area are already barely adequate for the current residents to escape in an emergency. Trying to cram that many more people onto those roads will turn them into death traps. Given that this particular development only has a single exit, what will happen if the fire blocks that route?
