

The Lake Cuyamaca/Edwards Stone House in Julian was designed and constructed by an unknown architect in 1928. The house represents a stone vernacular Craftsman style, and was one of only a few residences in the Lake Cuyamaca area during the 1920's and 1930's. Today, the house is the oldest, if not the last remaining residential structure that dates to this period in the Lake Cuyamaca area.
