Lisa

I would like to share my support for the Lilac Hills Project – I have been aware of the project since its inception and as a lifelong resident of Escondido and part of the business community for over 63 years we know that development is inevitable. What is unique about this development is the aspect of working with the agricultural component of the area and using sustainable options to benefit the community at large. I am sure that when Rancho Bernardo or San Elijo Hills were developed there were concerns from the neighbors and yet these communities have become staples of our urban environment today. The time and effort extended by Randy, Jon and the team at Lilac Hills to understand the needs of the community has been addressed and while not everyone supports the vision it is important that the process continue on.

Thanks for hearing from my perspective.

Kevin
