

From: Roger Boddaert
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 3:23:00 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Roger Boddaert

Fallbrook 92066 92088

From: Jean Lefmann
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Wednesday, July 29, 2015 7:39:37 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency responses of times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Jean Lefmann

Fallbrook 92028

From: Stephanie Eisenhower
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 9:15:27 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Eisenhower

Escondid, CA 92026

From: Kristina Nicholas
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 8:11:16 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Kristina Nicholas

Valley Center 92082

From: Gregory True
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 6:25:09 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Gregory True

Valley Center 92082

From: Stephanie True
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 4:59:38 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Stephanie True

Valley Center 92082

From: Fred Vaught
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 4:24:49 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages.

DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places. It makes more sense to infill development where services such as roads, and infrastructure are more developed and can handle increased demand on services.

Sincerely,
Fred M. Vaught

Fred Vaught

Valley Center 92082

From: Pam Asmus
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 2:36:12 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Pam Asmus

Valley Center 92082

From: Kristina Nicholas
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 2:21:19 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Kristina Nicholas

Valley Center 92082

From: Shannon Sykes
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 12:25:34 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Shannon Sykes

Valley Center 92082

From: Richard Price
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 12:17:11 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Richard Price

Valley Center 92082

From: Diane Price
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 12:15:38 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Diane Price

Valley Center 92082

From: Kevin Mecum
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 11:02:02 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Kevin Mecum

Kevin Mecum

San Marcos 92069

From: Kelly Lewis
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 10:07:21 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Kelly Lewis

Valley Center 92082

From: kelly metten
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 9:35:17 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

kelly metten

fallbrook 92028

From: Barbara Crawford
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 8:05:30 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Barbara Crawford

Valley Center 92082

From: Steve Seigny
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 7:40:46 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Steve Seigny

FALLBROOK 920288820

From: Isabella Seigny
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 7:40:10 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Isabella Seigny

FALLBROOK 92028

From: karen.koppenhaver
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 7:39:06 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

karen koppenhaver

Fallbrook 92028

From: jacquelyn rae
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 7:38:56 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

jacquelyn rae

Fallbrook 92028

From: Tanya Tarlton
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 7:35:18 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Tanya Tarlton

Valley Center 92082

From: veronica.arthur
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 7:24:08 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

veronica arthur

valley center 92082

From: Sharon Daniels
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 7:22:51 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Sharon Daniels

Fallbrook 92028

From: Eric DeMasi
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Tuesday, July 28, 2015 7:09:09 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Eric DeMasi

Fallbrook 92028

From: Mary Belton
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 11:00:02 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Mary Belton

Fallbrook 92028

From: Laura Gordon
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 10:36:40 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing, and it will put a significant drain on already scarce water resources. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Laura Gordon

Valley Center, CA 92082

From: Michele Oriente
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 10:34:55 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Michele Oriente

Fallbrook 92028

From: Lyle Alfonso
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 10:12:07 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Lyle Alfonso

Valley Center 93082)

From: Mike Chester
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 9:39:13 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Mike Chester

Oceanside 92056

From: Lisa Taunt
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 8:45:23 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Lisa Taunt

Fallbrook 92028

From: Ron Aguilar
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 8:19:21 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Ron Aguilar

Valley Center 92082

From: Michelle Barrios
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 7:58:09 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Michelle Barrios

Corona 92882

From: Susan Billing
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 7:56:27 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Susan Billing

Fallbrook 92028

From: Pam Lee
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 7:30:47 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Pam Lee

Fallbrook 92028

From: Janie Thelin
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 7:30:27 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Janie Thelin

Fallbrook 92028

From: Marites Fish
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 6:46:09 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Marites Fish

Fallbrook 92028

From: Laura Lanier
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 6:16:24 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Laura Lanier

Fallbrook 92028

From: Marcie Poulson
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 6:00:14 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Marcie Poulson

Fallbrook 92028

From: Juanita Rodriguez
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 5:58:15 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Juanita Rodriguez

Fallbrook 92028

From: Lisa Cherico
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 5:36:00 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Lisa Cherico

Fallbrook 92028

From: Julia Routh
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 5:29:13 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Julia Routh

Fallbrook 92028

From: Katherine Sprung
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 5:23:57 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Katherine Sprung

Anaheim 92806

From: Anne Atkins
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 4:56:37 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Anne Atkins

Fallbrook 92028

From: Danielle Calverley
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 4:55:52 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Danielle Calverley

Fallbrook 92028

From: Dee Fremont
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 4:47:15 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Dee Fremont

Oceanside 92057

From: Elizabeth Holdren
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 4:43:07 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Holdren

Fallbrook 92028

From: Roberta Hansen
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 4:41:02 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Roberta Hansen

Fallbrook 92028

From: Sue Hagen
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 4:40:02 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Sue Hagen

Fallbrook 92028

From: Christine Bouvier
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 4:23:53 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Christine Bouvier

Fallbrook 92028

From: Cheryce White
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 4:09:24 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Cheryce White

Bonsall 92003

From: Jesse Wilson-Ross
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 4:01:17 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Jesse Wilson-Ross

Fallbrook 92028

From: Lizzette Barrios-Gracian
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 4:01:09 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Lizzette Barrios-Gracian

Garden Grove 92840

From: Joy Frew
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 3:56:40 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Joy Frew

Fallbrook 92028

From: Rachel Wilson-Ross
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 3:53:55 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Rachel Wilson-Ross

Fallbrook 92028

From: Lisa Macek
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 3:51:47 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Lisa Macek

Fallbrook 92028

From: Tashia Burchett
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 3:50:20 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

With this drought, we need to be

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Tashia Burchett

Fallbrook 92028

From: Jean White
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 3:48:53 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Jean White

Fallbrook 92028

From: Teresa King
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 3:45:59 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Teresa King

Fallbrook 92028

From: Karen Langer Baker
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 3:25:19 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Karen Langer Baker

Fallbrook 92028

From: Niki Utecht
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 3:22:38 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing this email to request to you and ask politely that you please deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Niki Utecht

Valley Center 92082

From: Melinda Sparks
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 3:21:31 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Melinda Sparks

Fallbrook 92028

From: Jesse Zunke
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 3:16:40 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

A start would be widening mission and reche roads, instead of adding more sprawl.

Sincerely,

Jesse Zunke

Fallbrook 92028

From: Larry Griffis
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:52:16 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Larry Griffis

Fallbrook 92028

From: Diane Turner
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:50:07 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Diane Turner

Fallbrook 92028

From: nikki sanchez
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:49:00 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

nikki sanchez

Fallbrook 92028

From: Jillian Dickason
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:48:51 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Jillian Dickason

Fallbrook 92028

From: Renee Lee
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:47:36 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Renee Lee

Fallbrook 92028

From: Sherri Marquez
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:39:55 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Sherri Marquez

Oceanside 92056

From: Carla Mackey
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:36:11 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Carla Mackey

Fallbrook 92028

From: Daniel Stover
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:32:14 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Daniel Stover

Fallbrook 92028

From: Marcia Winston
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:31:18 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Marcia Winston

Fallbrook 92028

From: Cheyenne Richardson
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:30:15 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Cheyenne Richardson

bonsall 92003

From: Emma Kossman
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:26:29 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Emma Kossman

Fallbrook 92028

From: Patrick Wheatcroft
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:25:21 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

In addition to the pre-formatted letter I would like to add that my family and I live directly across the street from where this planned development of Lilac Hills is supposed to be built. NOBODY in this area wants this built. The entire reason we live here is to enjoy the peace, quiet, and the natural beauty of rural North County. We want to raise our families (my wife and I have 2 small daughters) in a peaceful, SAFE environment, away from the problems of the city and suburbs. If this massive development is allowed to be built it will utterly destroy any and all reason for us to live where we do. The crime issues that plague the larger areas will follow. As will the congestion of traffic. Please do not allow the greed of some developers to destroy the way of life we have enjoyed out here. Many people have lived here for 30 or 40 years. Thank you taking the time to read this.

One more thing: the final decision, whatever it may be, will be remembered come election year.

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Patrick Wheatcroft

Escondido 92026

From: Victoria Billingsley-Stover
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:29:04 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Victoria Billingsley-Stover

Fallbrook 92028

From: Fay Garhartt
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:07:53 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Fay Garhartt

Oceanside 92057

From: Candace Wood
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:07:03 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Candace Wood

Fallbrook 92028

From: Jeff Vorndam
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:06:08 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Jeff Vorndam

Fallbrook 92028

From: Ryan Brewer
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:01:22 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Ryan Brewer

fallbrook 92028

From: Jaime Purinton
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 1:50:38 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Jaime Purinton

Fallbrook 92028

From: Desarae Dowding
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 1:43:39 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Desarae Dowding

Temecula 92592

From: Catherine Milke
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 1:43:35 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Catherine Milke

Fallbrook 92028

From: Rena Hamilton
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 12:29:27 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Rena Hamilton

Valley Center 92082

From: Rachyl Pines
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 12:18:37 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Rachyl Pines

Valley Center 92082

From: Paul Mauricio
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 11:11:46 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Paul Mauricio

Vista CA

From: Tonya Saliba
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 10:14:27 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Tonya Saliba

Fallbrook 92028

From: Stewart Lanting
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 8:55:08 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

I am currently being asked to cut back on my water use by approx. 36%. How can projects like this even be considered?

There are very limited escape routes from central Valley Center and this massive project will clog road the roads which are already overcrowded because of casinos.

Sincerely, Stewart Lanting

Stewart Lanting

Valley Center 92082

From: Elen D Dainovskas
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 8:44:10 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Elen D Dainovskas

Valley Center 92082

From: Vanessa Norris
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Sunday, July 26, 2015 7:37:11 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Vanessa Norris

Valley Center 92082

From: Kim Newcomer
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Sunday, July 26, 2015 1:48:18 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Kim Newcomer

Ramona 92065

From: Janice McKay
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Sunday, July 26, 2015 11:38:02 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space and wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This projects severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, with urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who have reached agreements in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Jan McKay

Janice McKay

Orange 92867

From: Mason Alvarez
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Sunday, July 26, 2015 10:31:12 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Mason Alvarez

Bonsall 92003

From: Teresa McKeown
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Saturday, July 25, 2015 10:30:42 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Teresa McKeown

Valley Center 92082

From: Darlene Dakovich
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Saturday, July 25, 2015 7:21:32 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Darlene Dakovich

Fallbrook 92028

From: Dan Dakovich
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Saturday, July 25, 2015 7:17:42 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Dan Dakovich

Fallbrook 92028

From: Carolyn and Tony Kurtz
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Saturday, July 25, 2015 6:09:14 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Carolyn and Tony Kurtz

Valley Center 92082

From: Betty Prue
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Saturday, July 25, 2015 5:38:47 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Betty Prue

Valley Center 92082

From: Dwayne Louis
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Saturday, July 25, 2015 4:55:40 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Dwayne Louis

san diego 92127

From: Justyne Carnes
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Saturday, July 25, 2015 1:51:49 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Justyne Carnes

pauma valley 92061

From: Troy Gold
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Saturday, July 25, 2015 8:42:09 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Troy Gold

jackson 95642

From: Loretta Bradshaw
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Saturday, July 25, 2015 8:22:00 AM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Loretta Bradshaw

Fallbrook, CA 92028

From: Carey Kennedy
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 10:29:49 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Carey Kennedy

Fallbrook 92028

From: Eric Olson
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 4:53:14 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Eric Olson

VALLEY CENTER 92082

From: Jerry Janisch
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 4:10:11 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Jerry Janisch

Valley Center 92082

From: Victor Love
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Friday, July 24, 2015 3:23:26 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Victor Love

Atlanta 30311

From: Marcia Winston
To: Fitzpatrick, Lisa
Subject: Save Our San Diego Countryside
Date: Monday, July 27, 2015 2:31:18 PM

To the San Diego Planning Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask you to deny the Lilac Hills Ranch project for the following reasons:

We do not need this housing. The 2011 General Plan accommodates 72,683 new dwellings. In Valley Center alone, the plan calls for 6,400 new dwellings, between 2,500-3,000 of these at Village densities where housing will be priced in the $300K-$500K range.

We should not build village densities in rural places. San Diego County spent 13 years and $18.6 million to develop a General Plan that accommodates significant growth while still protecting open space, wildlife and agriculture in the unincorporated parts of the county. Areas designated for sparse development in the General Plan have rugged terrain, wildfire susceptibility, lack of infrastructure and are far from jobs and city services.

This project's severe and insurmountable problems with substandard roads, deficient fire and emergency response times, dangerously overburdened wildfire evacuation routes, urban water requirements that are 2.5 times greater than rural uses, destruction of protected waterways, and the taking of private land from families who are unwilling to sell are all a result of its rural location.

Please represent the thousands of business and property owners, developers, and residents who reached agreement in the General Plan Update. Respect the Smart Growth principles that undergird the General Plan.

Build village densities in established Villages. DENY General Plan Amendments that drop urban islands into rural places.

Sincerely,

Marcia Winston

Fallbrook 92028