

About the Authors: Until 1998, Brian Monaghan was a highly successful plaintiff's trial attorney practicing in San Diego. Educated at the United States Naval Academy, he served in Vietnam before entering the University of California, Hastings College of the Law. He founded his own law firm, and throughout his career earned numerous awards and citations as a trial lawyer. He has appeared on various television news programs, including The Today Show, 20/20, and NBC Dateline. He currently serves on the board of directors of the American Ireland Fund, the Salk Institute International Council, Hastings College of the Law at the University of California, and the San Diego Padres baseball team. Gerri Monaghan became a paralegal in the 1970s; she met Brian when applying for a job at his firm. They married in 1995. Before turning all of her attention to Brian and this book, Gerri spoke regularly at seminars regarding the role of paralegals; she was an active member of the League of Women Voters.