In a post-Super Bowl sweep early Monday, officers across the county checked on probationers with a history of abusing alcohol, arresting three, a Probation Department spokesman said.

Armed with Breathalyzers, probation officers, sheriff's deputies and police officers tested 37 people from Oceanside, San Marcos, Vista, Poway and Chula Vista who are not allowed to drink as a term of probation, Probation Department spokesman Derryl Acosta said.

One person was arrested after testing positive for alcohol, one for possession of marijuana and one for driving with a suspended license, Acosta said. They were all booked into jail, he said.
