to county planners:

For years county planning has been regulating us back country folks in the name of community character. Is that no longer something we care about? If soltec is approved we can apparantly do anything we want. How do large fields of massive solar collectors fit with our community character? For years the county planners have been watchdogs of water use. The soltec projects plan on using a copious amount of water. We do not have an infinite supply of water out here. Every year we get drier and drier. The springs that used to run year round now only run in the wet yeas, if then. If we run out of water the trees will all die. They say that if the wells in the immediate area are impacted they will get water from Live oak Springs. There will no longer be live oaks in Live Oak Springs. We are totally dependant on rainfall to replenish our aquafer. What happens to property values if there is no water? What is the countys' long tem plan for abandoned properties?
