C. Lapse in Certification/Recertification

1. For a lapse within six months, the individual shall comply with the original requirements for renewal.
2. For a lapse of six months or more, but less than 12 months, the individual shall comply with the original requirements for renewal and complete an additional 12 hours of CE for a total of 48 hours of training.
3. For a lapse of 12 months or more, but less than 24 months, the individual shall comply with the original requirements for renewal and complete an additional 24 hours of CE for a total of 60 hours of training, submit a Live Scan, and pass the written and skills certification exam described in Section II. A (3).
4. For a lapse of greater than 24 months, the individual shall complete the entire AEMT training course and comply with the original requirements for initial certification.

D. Notification Responsibilities

The AEMT shall be responsible for notifying CoSD EMS of his/her proper and current mailing and residential address and shall notify CoSD EMS in writing within 30 calendar days of any and all changes of the mailing and residential address, giving both the old and the new address, and AEMT registry number.

E. AEMT Certification Denial

An application for certification, renewal, or recertification shall be denied without prejudice and does not require an administrative hearing when an applicant does not meet the requirements for certification or recertification, including, but not limited to:

1. Failure to pass a certification or recertification examination
2. Lack of sufficient continuing education or documentation of a completed refresher course
3. Failure to furnish additional information or documents requested by the certifying entity
4. Failure to pay any additional fees

The denial shall be in effect until all requirements for certification, renewal, or recertification are met. If a certificate expires before renewal requirements are met, the certificate shall be deemed a lapsed certificate and subject to the provision pertaining to lapsed certificates.
