ITEM	SUMMARY AND ACTION ITEMS
program abroad with great results) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>▪ Program focused on suicide prevention and substance abuse prevention</li> <li>▪ Areas of most need for Child Welfare Services: Suicide prevention, Substance Use Disorder (Fentanyl), and culturally appropriate interventions</li> <li>▪ Suicide prevention should be included in one of the interventions</li> <li>▪ “Once young people understand mental health challenges, they are the first ones to reach out and support their friends. We have to remember that our youth first and foremost look to their friends for support far more quickly than any adult. Youth led Peer programs for mental health empower youth. They allow for diverse population interaction, sustainability as it is student led, and are financially low-cost and low maintenance using limited support human resources. Engaging students who want to help their peers is a productive mechanism for both the students wanting help and the student giving help. Peer supports learn more active listening and counseling skills – which creates a much-needed pipeline for mental health occupations.”</li> <li>▪ “Hoping for a required communication between law enforcement and a school when there is a youth that is a victim, witness, or perpetrator in a gang related crime. Then, the school can pick up on the other end with some support. Kids are showing up at school acting out and the school don’t know why and therefore, are not responding with the correct support. The schools are more able than any group in society, to reach the friends of the youth involved in the incident because they know who hangs out with who.”</li> <li>▪ “Handle with Care” is a program where law enforcement sends a notification to the school if they determined that a school age student experienced a possible traumatic event.
