PREVENTION STRATEGY

The County of San Diego utilizes environmental prevention strategies and a community-change model to prevent substance use problems and support healthier behavior choices throughout the region. Through active engagement with the community, key stakeholders, and the public health and public safety sectors, County behavioral health prevention initiatives reduce a variety of harms and problems related to substance use through three major initiatives:

- The Alcohol Policy Panel of San Diego County – addresses underage drinking issues in San Diego County communities and across the border
- Substance Use and Overdose Prevention Taskforce – addresses the personal, community and environmental impact of illicit substances in the region
- The Marijuana Prevention Initiative – focuses on youth use of marijuana
