

Wage Theft Judgment Dashboard

This dashboard provides you with the ability to search wage claims judgments issued by the California Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (Labor Commissioner) for cases that originated out of their San Diego Office.

A wage claim judgment is when the Labor Commissioner decides an employer has not paid the employee wages as required under the California Labor Code, for example not being paid overtime or being paid less than minimum wage. This is referred to as “wage theft.” If the employer does not pay the wage claim judgment, the Labor Commissioner will notify the local Superior Court and a legal judgment is filed against the employer.

The dashboard also allows the user to obtain information about the employer who violated the Labor Code, including the employer’s name, type of industry of the employer, date of judgement, and judgment amount.
