With more than 1,570 miles of bikeways in the San Diego region, riding a bike can get people where they want to go – to work, school, transit stations, and more. The interactive San Diego Regional Bike Map features base maps that show street, imagery or topographic views, as well as layers to highlight rail lines and steep routes. This free resource is produced by SANDAG and includes the latest updates to bikeways in the San Diego region and bike parking facilities. Use the bike map to plan your ride today!

Interactive San Diego Regional Bike Map

multi-use path

A completely separate path for shared use by bike riders, pedestrians, and other non-motorized users with minimal vehicle crossings. Some paths may have restricted access or speed limits.

bike lane

A striped lane for one-way bike travel on a street or highway.

bike route

A shared right-of-way designated by signs only, where bike riders share the roadway with motor vehicles. Also includes streets with "sharrows" or shared lane markings.

freeway shoulder bike access

Some freeway shoulders are open to bike riders. Use of freeway shoulders by inexperienced bike riders is not recommended. Obey all regulatory signs and exit the freeway when required.

other suggested routes

These suggested routes provide additional connections and are not official bikeways. Bike riders should use caution in choosing routes appropriate for their skills and equipment.

bikeways coming soon

Near-term bikeways planned by SANDAG.

steep routes

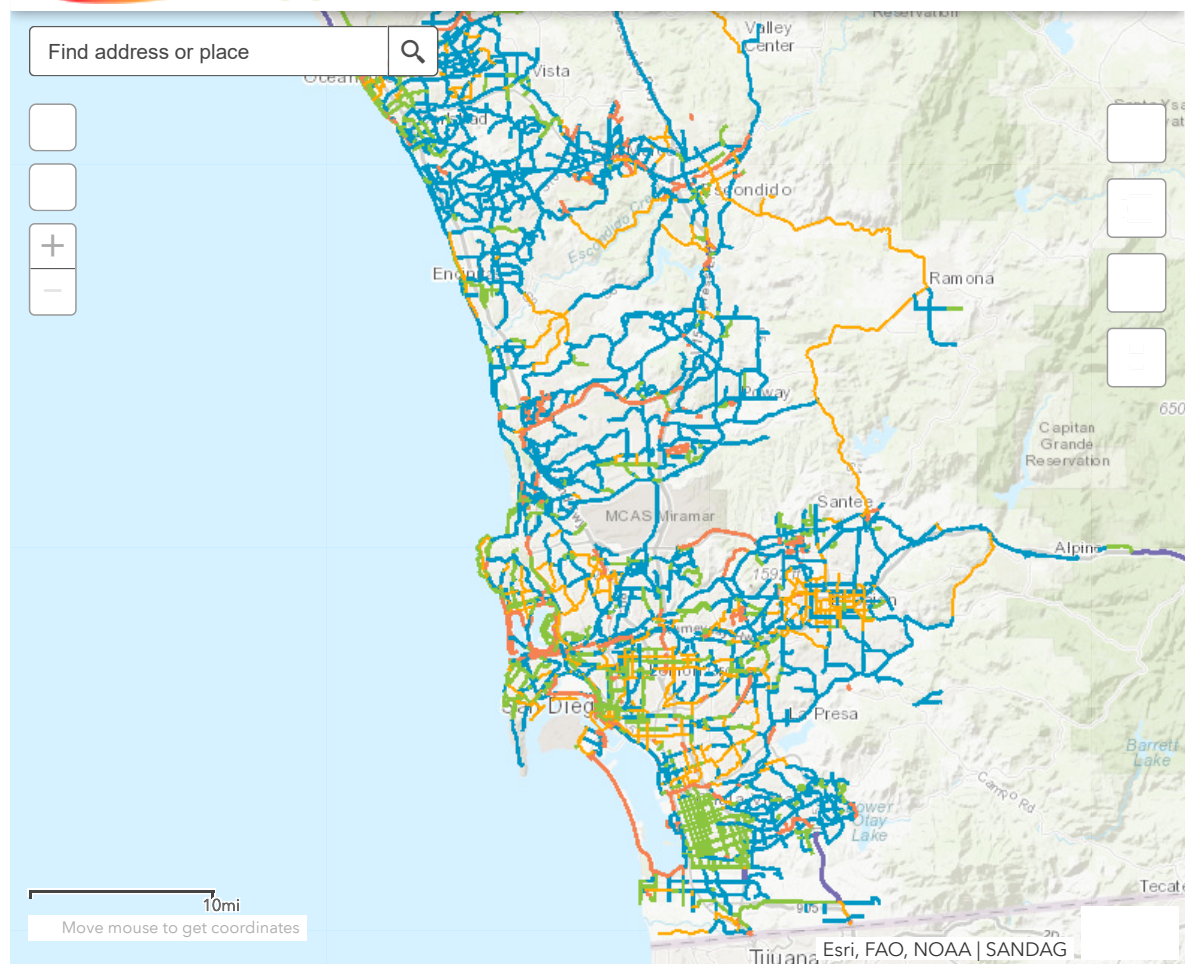

These are bikeways with steep sections that may be difficult for some bike riders.

Secure bike parking, located at a transit station or Park & Ride lot

Trolley, COASTER, and SPRINTER lines

please note:

Bikes are not allowed on the Coronado Bridge. Use the San Diego-Coronado Ferry to cross San Diego Bay.
