The state of California and other local jurisdictions, including San Diego City, also have independent commissions leading their redistricting processes. We hope the SD County Commission looks to these jurisdictions for inspiration and ideas about how to carry out its work and engage the public.

Recent state legislation changed San Diego County's deadline to adopt maps from August 15 to December 15, giving the commission additional time to carry out its work. There is now ample time to think through training and preparations that are necessary, and to develop outreach plans in partnership with community organizations.
