I am a native San Diegan, brought up on 54th St. I have lived in Fallbrook for the last forty one years. I think any effort to remove it from its North County neighbors and place it with East County communities like Santee, El Cajon and Lemon Grove is unwise, from both a geographic and demographic perspective. We are located a mere 9 or 10 miles from the ocean as the crow flies. We have much more in common with the coastal North County communities than those located over an hour away and I would bet that our concerns and environmental perspectives are much different from the East County folks as well.
