The rural communities in the East county of San Diego (El Cajon, Santee, Lakeside, Alpine, Jamul etc) should not be in the same districts as more dense, urban, and coastal communities in other areas of the county. A district must operate on an understanding of shared resources, land use, environmental conditions, community goals, industry, etc and be able to plan based on those shared concerns. The currently proposed districts vary too greatly in these concerns to be able to plan and govern effectively.

For the reasons above and more, I strongly support the maps outlined at this website:
www.sdcountryredistrictingmap.org. I believe they most accurately represent the existing communities of San Diego and set a solid foundation for the future.
