I want to express my concern with the current map and breakdown of the proposed redistricting of San Diego County - particularly as it relates to the East County. I have lived in the East County since 2013 and in San Diego since 2006. Upon arriving in the East County, I realized quickly (and have had this perception reaffirmed), that it is a unique and homogenous community that is distinct. The current map does not at all reflect the communities of interest in the East County OR the other areas of the county they are paired with. The needs of these more suburban, rural, and urban areas are not well reflected by the communities in San Diego city. It is simply apples and oranges. I work with the Chamber of Commerce, with the local school districts, and with many other community organizations. No one would ever divvy up these districts the way they are being presented now. Please do not chop up our communities like this and silence the voice of the many ethnically diverse and community-centered families and areas of the East County. We deserve relevant and meaningful representation. This is NOT it.
