The current proposals for redistricting silence the voice of the East County residents such as myself. Our unique community which has a common culture will no longer have a voice in San Diego County. The people responsible for redistricting need to leave their personal political activism to the side and do what is best for the residents. Silencing whole communities is not what is best for San Diego County. Those responsible for redistricting should not be afraid of free speech, or a diversity of view points. They should not be desperate to have 1 political party control this County, unless that is the will of the citizens. Finding a way to circumvent the will of the majority of the citizens is very wrong. At the very least, they should come up with a clever way of subverting the will of the people. These proposals are not clever, just obviously partisan gerrymandering.
