East County is unique. People live here because they love the country type atmosphere - mountains, trails, rodeos, horses, animals, less traffic, bigger lots, less air and noise pollution, patriotism, the western theme, etc. I would hope that the redistricting process will take into consideration this culture and the people who embrace it.

We hope that the communities of Lakeside, Alpine, Ramona, Pine Valley, Julian, Descanso, Jamul, Portrero, Santee, Crest, Campo, El Cajon and Poway be left as part of District 2. These communities have much in common and should not be separated or diluted with the communities of different culture and heritage. If a city/community had to be dropped, the most logical one would be La Mesa due to its proximity to San Diego and its urban nature.
