The communities of East County, including Lakeside, Aloine, Blossom Valley, El Cajon, etc need to not be combined with unlike communities, like beach or urban communities. We still have that small town atmosphere, with many small old-schol type downtowns. Our businesses & community interests remain rural, with rodeos, horse trails & lits of offroading enthusiasts. Our issues with land use ncludes things urban communities don't understand, but that are crucial to us, like animal barns, septic, and propane tanks. We need our district representatives to be a part of our more rural communities, representing people who they can understand our community needs that are different and uique frm more urban communities. The draft redistricting plans that link us to more urban communities outside of East County should not be allowed.
