Hello can't believe that I'm just hearing that my home might be broke away from Lakeside. I'm a simple man I live and work in Lakeside, my sons live just down the road from me. To have my wife tell me this morning that Barona might not be part of Lakeside anymore is mind blowing. My first thought was how does that happen, why would that happen, will my zip code change? I'm sure that most of the residents of Barona have no idea that this is being discussed or what it would mean long term for my home of Barona. I really can't believe that I might not be from Lakeside anymore. I really want to stay a Lakeside resident. What does this mean for other reservations in rural areas what are you really trying to do to Indian Country?
