At present, I support the basics of Map #11. I think it's extremely important to keep areas together under a single supervisor that have common interests, like the basic categories of our county:
North County Inland, North County Coastal, South Bay, East County, and Central San Diego. It is important to keep rural areas with common interests and mutual support emergency services arrangements together - the north county areas of San Marcos, Escondido, Fallbrook, Rainbow, Bonsall, Valley Center and eastward. We share so much. Please don't bring in Carlsbad to this region instead of Escondido. Additionally, it makes no sense to divide up areas like Ramona between districts. More consideration should be given to the community characteristics than trying to make numbers of demographics even out.
