Dear Commissioners, I am completely opposed to the current planned rezoning of Jamul, Lakeside and other East San Diego County communities. As a current resident of Jamul and as a former resident of Lakeside, the proposed combinations with Chula Vista or the City of San Diego shows a lack of foresight in this planned arrangement. Jamul is a rural unincorporated town. It is a Dark Sky community. We lack the amenities that city dwelling folks demand and require, and we want to maintain those differences. Rural communities have different philosophies and ways of living that cannot be managed successfully by urbanized representatives. As a former longtime member of the Lakeside Community Planning Group, I am well aware of land use issues and the disparity between city and rural topics from past dealings with developers.

Please reconsider the current proposed redistricting and instead choose the mapping out of Escondido.

Thank you.
Michelle Braun
