Dear Commission on redistricting:

As a member of the Chaldean community I feel the proposed redistricting of East County would diminish our representation. There are three Chaldean Catholic churches. Two in El Cajon city and one in Rancho. By splitting off El Cajon from the rest of East County the interests of the community would be divided and not heard if they are lumped in with urban communities that are not familiar with East County.

In conclusion. There was no significant population change according to the census. Any proposed redistricting would violate our Voting Rights. We would not have representation. If the board goes with breaking apart El Cajon from the rest of East County. This would seem to the community this is an intentional act to separate us and take away our representation.

Thank you Bernadette Konja
