My name is Jessica and I'm a resident of Chula Vista. While I work and spend time in the City of San Diego, most of my day to day life is in the South County border region. My close family and friends live in Chula Vista, National City, Imperial Beach and Tijuana. My nieces and nephews attend school in the Chula Vista Elem School District and Sweetwater Union High School District. Many of us in the South Bay region cross the border back and forth to visit family and friends, shop, eat, work, etc. We need a district that recognizes this reality and prioritizes the needs of immigrants and transborder people. I hope the commission draws a South County District that represents the large Latinx population. Last year was the first time we ever had a Latinx on the County Board of Supervisor. The lack of Latinx representation in a County that is over one third Latinx overall is unacceptable, even more so in South County where we have such a large population. We need a district that represents our interests while also including the interests of API people in the region. The communities of the current district that do not have commonalities with our day to day lives nor share our interests are Point Loma and Coronado, who have access and power and have drowned out our voices.
